Southwest Indiana Workforce Board Hosts Another Vanderburgh County Jobapalooza

Evansville, IN – Southwest Indiana Workforce Board recently organized another successful Jobapalooza event in Vanderburgh County on Thursday, October 19th, which took place at the WorkOne Southwest office in Evansville. The event was open to job seekers of all ages and experience levels and aimed to connect them with potential employers and resources to help with barriers to employment such as childcare, housing, clothing, and legal assistance.

Before Jobapalooza, SWIN Workforce Board also held a Re-Employment Informational Session to help individuals who have recently lost their jobs at no fault of their own. The session was aimed at providing support and guidance to those who needed it most.

The Jobapalooza event was attended by over 160 job seekers who networked with potential employers and connected with local resources. The event received positive feedback from attendees who appreciated the opportunities provided to them. Valerie Schmidt, Business Services and Communications Manager for the Southwest Indiana Workforce Board praised the event's success, stating “Events like Jobapalooza play a critical role in helping job seekers find meaningful work and providing them with the necessary resources to overcome any barriers they may face. The success of this event highlights Southwest Indiana Workforce Board's dedication to supporting job seekers and employers throughout the region.”
