

PRESS RELEASE

March 4, 2025

MEET OUR NEW COMMUNICATIONS COORDINATOR

The Southwest Indiana Workforce board welcomes Breann Jones to the team. Breann joins the organization with a decade of experience in communications, most recently serving as the evening anchor for 14 News WFIE in Evansville. Throughout her award winning journalism career, she found passion in sharing stories about people within the community who are making a difference. This role allows her to continue sharing those stories to encourage the workforce and businesses who are facing barriers, unfulfillment, and challenges that come with employment.

“This organization can transform and change people’s lives, and that’s why I wanted to be part of it. Those across southwestern Indiana can find worth and value by simply taking advantage of the free resources available at the Southwest Indiana Workforce Board,” she says.

Through this position, Breann hopes to ensure that everyone throughout the region knows about the services and opportunities available to them through this organization.

Southwest Indiana Workforce Board Executive Director Sara Worstell says, “With Breann’s background in communication mixed with her passion for people this community, she was the perfect fit for the role. We are so excited she joined our team.”

Breann would love to connect with you. Her contact information is below. Follow the organization on social media for all the latest updates and exciting events happening at the Southwest Indiana Workforce Board.
